LOS ANGELES' BELOVED GARDE SHOP BRINGS ITS WORLDLY PERSPECTIVE TO SUMMERLAND

> Garde, the Beverly Boulevard mecca of organic modern design, is escaping the city with a new second location outside of Santa Barbara in Summerland, set in a historic 1921 Shaker-inspired barn. Double the size of its original site, the shop is filled with the brand's warm, minimalist global finds, including exclusive Dim Atelier lighting and Ben Storms furniture, as well as new collaborations such as a line of fixtures and hardware created by founder Scotti Sitz and fabricator Peter van Cronenburg. There's also Garde House, a one-bedroom rental on the second floor (available to book through Garde's website) with luxe details including ebonized oak counters by Studio E&R and amenities such as Glitch coffee from Japan.

The renovation of both spaces occurred during the region's recent wildfires and mudslides. Though their structure was spared, the disaster gave Sitz more resolve. "We fell in love with the town," she says. "We're determined to be part of the revitalization of this community." 2280 Lillie Ave., Summerland, 805-845-8384; gardeshop.com.

Pattern Behavior

Fourteen years after co-founding the California furnishings label Serena & Lily, Serena Dugan is continuing to break creative ground. The textile designer and painter recently debuted the Serena Dugan Studio and its waterfront Sausalito headquarters. Here, Dugan dreams up original and commissioned fine art and decorative works, and transposes them into custom fabrics, wallpapers, hand-loomed rugs, encaustic tiles and more. She also uses her keen eye to create site-specific designs for interiors, all while staying true to her cheery, motif style. “Good design should have soul,” says Dugan. “When you combine the elements of art, pattern and decor in a way that’s personal and unique, that’s where the magic happens.”

Reflective THINKING

A discarded mirror discovered on the sidewalk by accessories designer Raven Kauffman a decade ago became the basis for her new collection, RK Objet. After adorning the aged piece with sea urchin shells, crystals and lighting, she embarked on the custom range, putting her Cornell University biochemistry degree to use along with her metalsmithing, silvering and casting skills to fabricate an array of ethereal mirrors. It’s “a perfect storm of all the individual artistic pursuits I’ve had throughout my life,” she says. rkobjet.com. JESSICA RITZ
